Sir Moroch Kavanaugh, son of Donald-an-Spaineach, and his sons emigrated to France after 1690. He had two sons Philemon, and Colonel Charles Kavanaugh. The latter's regiment formed the besieging force at Derry. He married Mary Kavanaugh of the Borris family, his cousin, Captain Ignatius Kavanaugh, son of Colonel Charles Kavanaugh served with his regiment through the Irish war, and with his father, Colonel Charles, and his brother James and grandfather Sir Moroch, being deprived of their estates in Ireland for violating the treaty of Limerick, took refuge in France. Sir Moroch's eldest son, and second son went from France to America between 1691 and 1705.

Colonel Charles Kavanaugh returned to France. His son Ignatius was Captain of a Grenadier Company. He married Katherine, daughter of Andrew Browne, of Galway of the Castle McGarrett family. They had three sons, Nicholas, Andrew and Charles and were living in France in 1776.

Philemon Kavanaugh, eldest son of Sir Moroch Kavanaugh is the ancester of the "American branch of the ancient family of Kavanaugh."

The names of his descendants are given here as nearly as careful research can furnish.

Reverend John F. Sherlock is a minister of M. E. Church in Indiana, and is a useful and much esteemed man in his community. His wife Sophia Elizabeth Bear is related through her grandmother Sophia Elizabeth Clay, cousin of Henry Clay, to some of the best families in Kentucky.

Williams Kavanaugh son of Philemon Kavanaugh and Mary Harrison, his wife, married Hannah Hubbard Hinde, daughter of Dr. Thomas Hinde and his wife, Mary Hubbard, daughter of an English merchant, Benjamin Hubbard.

Dr. Thomas Hinde was born in Oxfordshire, England, 1734. He graduated in medicine and surgery in London, under the celebrated Dr. Brooks, of St. Thomas' Hospital. Dr. Brooks soon secured young Hinde a commission of surgeon's mate, in the British Navy, and he was sent into foreign service. The fleet to which he was attached arrived in New York, June 14, 1757.

He was with the squadron in 1757-1758. He was at the reduction of Louisberg, in 1758. In 1759 he was at the reduction of Quebec. He belonged to the vessel which General Wolfe left to go on shore to contend with Montcalm on the Plains of Abraham. He dressed General Wolfe's wounds when he fell on that memorable occasion. He returned to England after the fall of Quebec and was at the reduction of Bellisle and was promoted to surgeon. After peace was concluded with France, went to Essex county, Virginia and began the practice of medicine. In 1767, September 24th, Dr. Hinde married Mary Todd Hubbard. Patrick Henry was a neighbor and Dr. Hinde was his family physician. Dr. Hinde was the friend of Lord Dunmor, as well as Patrick Henry, and warmly espousing the American cause, he was apointed a surgeon of the army by the Governor of Virginia, in which position he served without pay throughout the Revolutionary war. At the close of the war he was presented with a land warrant to be located in lands in Kentucky, leaving a blank to be filled by Dr. Hinde himself. It was filled with twenty thousand acres and placed in the hands of Patrick Henry to locate. Mr. Henry only secured ten thousand acres. Dr. Hinde gave his nephew Hubbard Taylor, one-half of this to locate the lands, which he did between Winchester and Lexington, Kentucky—mostly in Clark county.

Williams Kavanaugh, who married Hannah Hubbard Hinde, son of Williams (I) Kavanaugh and Mary Harrison, was born August 3, 1775, near the dividing line between Virginia and the "District of Kentucky." He joined the Methodist ministry early in life, and was called the most gifted young preacher of the times the "Pere Hyacinthe" of the West.

After his marriage he located and later entered the Episcopal ministry. He filled several important churches as rector, Lexington, Louisville and others. After a few years of marked usefulness in the Protestant Episcopal Church he died in his thirty-fifth year, October 16, 1806. Their children are:

Hannah Hubbard Hinde, wife of Williams (II) Kavanaugh deserves an especial veneration by her descendants. Left early a widow, she with rare intelligence and far seeing wisdom directed by her Heavenly Father, to whom she appealed in every transaction in rearing her family, left an influence that is still being felt by her descendants.

She was born in Hanover county, Virginia, March 6, 1777.

Her family were not religious but at the age of twelve years she joined the Methodist Church, and her religious convictions were so pronounced her mother too, became awakened, later her father Dr. Hinde, who had scoffed and fumed and thought his wife and daughter had lost their minds, came into the church, and was indeed a power for good.

Thomas Williams Kavanaugh eldest son of Williams (II) Kavanaugh and Hannah Hubbard Hinde, his wife, was born in Clark county, Kentucky, in 1799. At the age of fifteen he was employed as Deputy in the Clerk's office of the Court of Appeals of Kentucky. At the age of twenty-one, he was induced by some officers of the United States Army to apply for a commission in the army. He did so and it was granted with the commission of First Lieutenant of U. S. A. He rendered only three years service. His health failing he received a furlough, but only got to Frankfort, Kentucky, and died May 23, 1823.

Leroy Harrison Kavanaugh second son of Wiliams Kavanaugh and Hannah Hubbard Hinde, his wife. He was a worthy son of gifted parents and grandparents. But few men exerted a wider influence in the community in which he lived than Leroy Kavanaugh. His character was marked by inflexible integrity. He was a gifted minister of the Methodist Church, and his consecrated life work was in some degree commemorated by a handsome monument erected by his neighbors in the Odd Fellows Cemetery, Mt. Carmel, Illinois. He married Rachel Martin, of Clark county, Kentucky, in 1819. Their children are:

Thomas W. Kavanaugh born in Clark County, Kentucky.

Mary F. Kavanaugh born in Clark County, Kentucky.

Elizabeth F. Kavanaugh born in Clark County, Kentucky.

Margaret C. Kavanaugh born in Clark County, Kentucky.

Sarah A. Kavanaugh born in Clark County, Kentucky.

Benjamin Harrison Kavanaugh born in Wabash, Illinois.

Williams V. Kavanaugh born in Wabash. Illinois.

John D. Kavanaugh born in Wabash, Illinois.

Martha Kavanaugh born in Wabash, Illinois.

The only surviving son (1908) is John D. Kavanaugh of Friendsville, Illinois. He has two daughters.

The only surviving daughter of Leroy Kavanaugh and Rachel Martin, his wife is:

Martha Kavanaugh Hadley, of Lynn, Massachusetts.

Benjamin Kavanaugh was killed at Atlanta, Georgia, in 1864.

Hubbard Hinde Kavanaugh third son of Williams Kavanaugh and Hannah Hubbard Hinde, his wife, was born in Clark County, Kentucky, in 1802. He was a student of theology from an early age and impressed with a desire to uplift the race. He became a minister of the Methodist Church in early manhood. He served the church with such diligence, fervor and strength of intellect that raised him to the highest place in the gift of the church, he was made a member of the Cabinet of Bishops. He was Bishop forty years, and presided over every Conference of the Southern States from time to time He was not only a bishop in the ecclesiastical sense but in an evangelical sense. Not in his whole life was there a breath of scandal against him. He was simple as a child, affectionate as a woman, accessible to all. He was no imperious prelate, repelling with imperial air the poor and humble. No one would say of him "On what meat doth this our Caesar feed that he has grown so great." He was broad minded, large heated, self forgetful. His consistent life, warm, genial disposition, unsurpassed eloquence won for him everywhere the warmest friendships, his very presence brought sunshine and happiness. One writing of him says:

"When his eloquence caught fire flashing from planet to planet, from earth to heaven, his audiences were charmed by his power and thrilled by his wonderful flow of language as well as the beautiful images painted by his matchless speech." He had a national reputation for eloquence. It was a "two-edged sword of heavenly temper keen."

In the Autumn of 1883, Bishop Kavanaugh made his last visit to Versailles, Kentucky, a place he loved well where his first wife and all his children were buried.

It is rather remarkable that Bishop Kavanaugh preached his last sermon in a Presbyterian church, that of Dr. Palmer, of New Orleans, but not surprising, he received much of his early religious training from Dr. Lyle a Presbyterian minister of Paris, Kentucky. He left New Orleans for Ocean Springs, March, 1884, from thence to Columbus, Mississippi. He became quite ill here and on Wednesday, March 19, 1884, he breathed his last.

Bishop Kavanaugh married (1) Mrs. Margaret Railey Green; to them were born six children all of whom died in infancy. (2) Mrs. Martha Richardson Lewis,* who was with him at time of his death.

*The last wife of Bishop Kavanaugh died January 13, 1908, at the home of her grandchildren in Pasadena, California, age 94 years.

Benjamin Taylor Kavanaugh, fourth son of Williams Kavanaugh and Hannah Hinde, his wife, was born in Jefferson County, Kentucky, near Louisville, April 23, 1805. He had a varied business career. His intellect was active and alert, making him seek many enterprises. He became a minister in early life in the Methodist Church, and preached the doctrine of that church throughout his life. He was sent by his church a Missionary to the Sioux and Chippewa Indians in 1839. After his agency transpired he studied medicine and graduated in Indiana Asbury University. He then practiced medicine six years in St. Louis. The St. Louis Christian Advocate was started at this time. Dr. Kavanaugh became its editor, at the same time holding a Professorship in the medical department in the University of Missouri.

In 1861, he joined the Southern Army under General Price, and served as chaplain for two years. Afterwards he was appointed by Bishop Payne missionary for the army and served also as surgeon and physician until the close of the war.

In 1865, he was transferred to the Texas Conference and was elected to the chair of Moral Philosophy in Soule University; his son, Dr. Thomas H. Kavanaugh being Professor of Natural Science in the same institution.

Dr. Kavanaugh was the author of several scientific works: His "Electricity the Motor Power of the Solar System" and "The Great Central Valley of North America" published by order of the Smithsonian Institute. He was also author "Notes of a Western Rambler." He died in 1886.

Dr. Benjamin T. Kavanaugh was married twice: (1) Miss Margaret Lingenfeller, April 3, 1827. To them were born:

Mary Kavanaugh, married Mr. Mendenhall, of Houston, Texas. They have two children, William and Ada.

Dr. Thomas H. Kavanaugh died of yellow fever in Chappell Hill, Texas, October 8, 1867.

Julia Kavanaugh, died of same disease, October 9, 1867.

(2) wife of B. T. Kavanaugh, was Mrs. Sue Stith Barre, of Mt. Sterling, Kentucky.

Mary Kavanaugh only daughter of Williams Kavanaugh and Hannah Hubbard Hinde, his wife, was born in Clark County, Kentucky, November 16, 1803. Her educational advantages were superior to most young ladies of that time, and her bright intellect responded readily. She was a bright gifted girl; early became a member of the Methodist Church and wielded a power in it. She married Dr. John Challen in 1822, a young Englishman of good family of Lexington, Kentucky. They removed to Waverly, Illinois in 1830, where several of their children yet live (1908). Their children are as follows:

Williams Barbour Kavanaugh youngest child of Williams Kavanaugh and Hannah Hinde, his wife, was born in Clark County, Kentucky, February 17, 1807, a few months after the death of his father. He became a member of the Methodist Church when a boy and began early to study for the ministry. He was ordained minister of that Church in 1837. He also, as was his brother Benjamin appointed missionary to the Sioux Indians. He asked to be located in 1849. Was readmitted to the Conference in 1856. Served six years as Presiding Elder. In 1876, he was transferred to Los Angeles Conference, and served as Presiding Elder four years, then returned to Kentucky. He was a close reasoner and deep thinker; was author of several scientific papers on the "Power of Mind over Matter." His thought was in advance of the teaching of the day. Had he made science or literature a specialty. he would have made a name equal to the best. He was the peer of any of his gifted brothers, all four being of superior intellectual endowment.

In 1831, on the 6th of November, he married Susan A. Evans, of Clark County, Kentucky; to them were born eleven sons, ten of whom grew to manhood. Their names are: Peter Evans, Charles Williams, Hubbard Hinde, Robert Hord, Marcus, Sydnor, Thomas, James, Joseph Louis, (died three years old) Richard, Edmund Taylor. Mrs. Susan E. Kavanaugh, accompanied by her youngest son, Edmond T., started to her home in Kentucky from a visit to California in the spring of 1883. In coming through the Rocky Mountains she was taken with a congestive chill. They left the train and went to a hotel in Council Bluffs, Iowa, where she died in a few hours. Few there must be who receive such love and devotion as Mrs. Kavanaugh received from her family and friends. A very superior, high type of woman. Her influence was far reaching and continues to this day. Her son brought her remains to her home and now rest in the family lot in Riverside Cemetery, in Falmouth, Ky.

Peter Evans Kavanaugh son of Williams Barbour Kavanaugh and Susan Evans, his wife, married Mary Le Compte, daughter of Congressman Joseph Le Compte, of Franklin, County, Kentucky.

Reverend Peter Kavanaugh early joined the Methodist ministry; he had a Collegiate Education, was deeply read in the literature of the times and was a man of force and character. He died in 1900, at his home in Franklin County, Kentucky. To him and Mary Le Compte, his wife, were born six children: Margaret, Martha, Elizabeth, —— — an infant (died), Luke, Joseph Le Compte.

According to "Connellan's Tribal History of Ireland" the nation was originally made up of four distinct clans, one, afterwards the Kavanaugh clan, came from Greece in the second century, A. D.

This Greek clan preserved its organization, governed by its own princes. In the eleventh century, Dermot the 58th King of Leinster, of this Greek clan had a son Donald who was educated in the school of Kilkavan; he in turn became king of Leinster, and from the date of his being fostered at Kilkavan took the sirname Kavanaugh; the "agh" meaning "of" in their language—His descendants thereafter bore the cognomen Kavanaugh and have always been patrons of learning; the name has always been synomymous with integrity of character and firmness of purpose.

When in 1688 William of Orange established himself on the throne of England, James II fled to France. Among his adherents were several prominent Irish families. Sir Moroch Kavanaugh, who was a direct descendant of a King of Leinster, and his sons of Clonmollen County, Carlow and the Garryhill family of Arthur Moroch being deprived of their estates, took refuge in France.

From these two families come two sons the best product of the name:

Louis Eugene Cavaignae (Kavanaugh) of France, and Hubbard Hinde Kavanaugh of United States. Both were born in 1802.

The House of Kavanaugh.

Louis Eugene Kavanaugh was the son of John Kavanaugh of the Garyhill family, John Kavanaugh was one of the Deputies of the Conventions during the Revolution of France in 1793. His son Louis Eugene received a thorough technical and military education; he filled various important offices in the Government and army of France. It is written of him: "France may justly boast of her many great men, but no man of the 19th century enjoyed greater distinction than did General Louis Eugene Kavanaugh." He received one and one-half millions of votes for the Presidency of France. He died in 1867.

Walter McMorogh Kavanaugh better known as the "Kavanaugh of Borris," who has just been elected without opposition to Parliament as member from County Carlow, on the Nationalist ticket is blind and his infirmity serves to recall the fact, that his father the Right Honorable Arthur McMurrogh Kavanaugh (who is No. 134 of the Kavanaugh No. 1 Pedigree of the Lords of Leinster) was born virtually without arms or legs of which he possessed nothing, but the merest rudiments.

Enjoying the same race privilege as that accorded in the House of Lords to the late Marquis of Waterford who shockingly crippled by a hunting field accident, was permitted to remain seated when delivering any speech. Arthur Kavanaugh was allowed the same privilege. The way he triumphed over his physical defects was amazing. Strapped to a chair saddle, with the reins fastened to the stumps of his arms he could manage his horse with the utmost ease, and rode to hounds as bold as any in the field.

He could fish, draw and paint, could write legibly, was a great traveller, an accomplished linguist, a most efficient magistrate and Lieutenant High Sheriff for his county and a popular landlord of one of the largest estates in Ireland. He married the beautiful daughter of Colonel J. S. Howard of Balinna Park, County Wicklow and had a large family of children, the eldest of whom is the new Nationalist member from County Carlow. Another son, Colonel Kavanaugh, commands the "King's Own" regiment of the Tenth Hussars and greatly distinguished himself in the South African War.

A daughter of the late Arthur Kavanaugh, who inherited all her mother's loveliness married the son of dear old Dr. Alexander, Protestant Archbishop of Armagh and Primate of Ireland. The Kavanaughs are descended in a direct line from that famous king of Leinster who figured so prominently in the first relations between England and Ireland.

In fact it was this Dermot Kavanaugh, King of Leinster, ancestor of the Kavanaugh's who having been deprived of his throne for tyranny appealed for help to the King of England and thus brought about the invasion of Ireland by the English, and they have remained there ever since.

Walter McMurough Kavanaugh his lineal descendant is a recent convert to Home Rule and committed to a policy which has for its object the expulsion of the English from the Emerald Isle.

He is extremely popular not only in County Carlow, but throughout Ireland.

Explanatory Note.

There are many Cavanaghs in America of the Catholic faith. They are from the peasantry of County Cavan, Ireland, which is not one of the twelve counties that formed the principality of Leinster, which was under the rule of the same clan that came from Greece in the second century. It was always a Protestant clan. The last Prince of Leinster, died in 1417, Arthur Oge. His eldest son, Gerald is the ancestor of the Sir Moroch Kavanaugh, whose son Philemon is the head of the American branch.

In 1866, Mr. Arthur M. Kavanagh, who had neither arms nor legs, was elected to the British Parliament.
